Executive Director's Message

During this pandemic, all of the staff from Chautauqua Works have been working from home. Staff have been reaching out to customers and businesses asking how can they help. They will continue to do so as we all weather through crisis. We are here for you.

This is a stressful time for all of us as we adjust to this new normal. We all need to take care of ourselves both physical and mentally. Make sure to carve out some time for yourself.

Stay connected to us through social media. Chautauqua Works has an active Facebook page to keep you informed.

Social media has also made it possible to search and find jobs online. There are several legitimate websites that you can use to look for work online.

When this pandemic is over we will need everyone to be ready to get our economy moving again. Now is a good time for job seekers to utilize the resources provided in this newsletter. Information is provided on how you can take a free online course offered by the Chautauqua-Cattaraugus Library System., how to stay positive, skills needed to compete in today's workplace, along with information to protect yourself from COVID-19 also known as the coronavirus.

We look forward to the day when we all can meet face-to-face. It is our hope that each and every one of you stay safe and healthy during time. In the meantime, we will continue to serve you as best we can.

Staying positive during the Coronavirus

Chautauqua Works' doors may be closed during this pandemic but we want you to know that we are here to help you cope. Help us to stay in contact with you by liking us Facebook. Valuable information is posted daily such as job postings, ways to look for work, and motivational tips. Staff are reaching out to individuals via emails and calling. If you need help let us know.

Routines have changed for all of us. Maybe you are at home with your children trying to help them cope with not being in school, homeschool or missing extracurricular activities. As challenging as this time is, look for the positive in the situation. Try not to be consumed by cable news or Facebook. Look for inspiring messages, and rely on trusted news sources for updates.

There are many things that families can do together that provide enjoyment, go for a hike, ride bikes, enjoy a nature walk keeping your distance with others, of course. Board games or cards are fun, try to learn a new language, tell family stories, bake cookies together, teach your children practical life skills like sewing, or sing or dance to get everyone moving. Stay positive we got this!

Top Skills Needed to Compete in Today's Workplace

BY DAWN ROSENBERG MCKAY (thebalancecareers)

Whoever said, "it's a rat race out there" knew nothing about how competitive today's workplace would be. Rats have it easy! Make it through a maze, grab your treat, and you're done. It's not enough to be the best at what you do. Having the hard skills you need to excel at your occupation is a requirement, but being the best at your job won't help you win the race. Having competitive skills that employers' value will. Let's take a look at what they are.

- Stop Talking and Start Listening
Some people think they can talk their way to the top. Sharing your knowledge with others is important, but listening can benefit you in so many ways. You can learn a lot when you make an effort to understand what others are saying to you.

- Solve Problems Instead of Complaining About Them

Every workplace has its problems, and it's hard to avoid letting them bother you. Complaining about these nuisances won't help even a little bit. On the contrary, it will be harmful since negativity brings everyone down, and can quickly turn the environment toxic.

- Think Critically
When you are making a decision, you may be tempted to do so as swiftly as possible. After all, you have a lot to get done in a very short amount of time. The faster you can solve a problem or figure out how to reach a goal, the more quickly you can cross an item off your list and move on to the next thing. Although it may seem like a waste of your limited time to spend a lot of it considering all your choices when making a decision, you will be much more successful if you do.

- Be an Effective Time Manager

As a busy professional, your life is hectic. The ability to manage your time well is essential. It is one of the most competitive skills you can have.

- Get Along With Everyone
When you realize that getting along with your coworkers doesn't mean you have to like them all, it becomes a more achievable mandate. Excellent interpersonal skills will allow you to fulfill your boss's wish for harmony in the workplace.

- Show Them Who Is The Leader

Finally, if you want to make it to the top, you will have to exhibit your leadership ability. You can't be a leader without followers, so the first thing you have to do is get people to respect and trust you enough to line up behind you.

Do Your Part to Stop the Coronavirus Spread

This is a challenging time for our country. Chautauqua County may seem like it is a far distance from NYC but don't kid yourself we are not immune to this virus. It is an invisible enemy that requires all of us to practice preventive measures to stop its spread.

We will get through this but we need everyone to follow the health guidelines set by the Center for Disease Control (CDC) on how to slow the coronavirus spread:

- Wash your hands often for a minimum of 20 seconds– sing Happy Birthday twice
- Practice social distancing stand six feet apart
- Cover your cough with a tissue (throw away when done) or use your elbow
- Avoid those who are sick
- If you have to go to the store, go quickly and get the supplies you need, keep your distance from others, and remember this is not a trip for a family outing

Chautauqua Works staff look forward to the day when we can serve you face to face. For the time being you can use this time to strengthen your skills (page one links), read, sing, exercise, go for a walk, enjoy the wonder of nature, or sit and meditate and clear your mind. Stay safe and we wish you good health!
